

Self-Care RIIG Call for Abstracts - Guaranteed Research Symposium at the 2023 Annual MNRS Research Conference March 29 – April 1, 2023 in Des Moines, IA

ABSTRACT SUBMISSIONS DUE ON JULY 22, 2022

Title: Advancing Self-Care Science through the Research Lenses of the NINR 2022-2026 Strategic Plan.

The Self-Care RIIG will sponsor a 90-minute symposium focused on moving forward self-care and self-management science within the scope of the National Institutes of Nursing Research (NINR) 2022 -2026 strategic plan. Researchers and clinical practitioners are invited to submit their abstracts for the purpose of participating as panelists discussing current and relevant self-care and self-management science through the research lenses of the current NINR strategic plan (health equity, social determinants of health, population and community health, prevention and health promotion, and/or systems and models of chronic disease management).

Self-Care RIIG Guaranteed Symposium Objectives:

- Identify priorities for self-care research within the lenses of the NINR 2022-2026 strategic plan.
- Illustrate recommended best practices for self-care research within the lenses of the strategic plan.
- Discuss interventions that impact self-care related to the NINR 2022-2026 strategic plan.
- Explain research challenges in conducting community-based participatory self-care research.

Abstract submissions should follow the IMRAD format, including an introduction with the purpose statement, and framework, if applicable, the methods, results, and discussion with a conclusion. The word count should be limited to 350 words. Abstracts will be de-identified by the RIIG's co-chairs and scored by the RIIG's symposium committee members. Committee members will select 3-5 abstracts that will guide the panel discussion. Ideally, chosen abstracts will collectively address each of the NINR's research lenses.

Please email the abstracts to the Self-Care RIIG co-chairs Dr. Natany da Costa Ferreira Oberfrank (natany-dacostaferreira@uiowa.edu) and Dr. Michelle Johnson (micheljohnson@unmc.edu) by July 22, 2022. All primary authors will be notified of the panelist selection by August 9, 2022. The panel discussion will take place in Des Moines, IA, March 29 – April 1, 2023.